Digital Storytelling in the Humanities
A Workshop by the Ethnic Layers of Detroit (ELD)

The Ethnic Layers of Detroit project creates digital stories showcasing the cultural histories of different ethnic groups that built the city of Detroit. Learn more: http://www.clas.wayne.edu/ELD/

At this workshop participants will learn the steps and considerations involved in creating digital stories, and create their own short digital story about a historical facet of Detroit, or a topic of their choice!

Participating in the workshop will give you an opportunity to hone your skills as a digital storyteller, add to your professional portfolio, and even become a contributor to the ELD project.

This workshop is open to all undergraduate and graduate WSU students interested in the history of Detroit and digital storytelling.

Register at: https://tinyurl.com/eld2018
Questions: eld@wayne.edu