- RUS/70 - MOSCOW DOES NOT BELIEVE IN TEARS
Moscow does not believe in tears is Vladimir Menshov's enchanting drama of three women struggling to establish themselves in Russia's huge and often impersonal capital city. Liudmilla, Katerina and Antonina seem to have little in common, but are bound by a deep friendship and the shared dream that in Moscow they will somehow find happiness. Moscow follows their resourceful pursuits of professional and domestic bliss in 1920s then skips forward twenty years to see just how many of their dreams have come true. On one level Moscow works as a free-spirited melodrama in the classical Hollywood tradition, yet at the same time it offers something more. Beneath its charming exterior, the film is a truthful, moving portrait of the plight of women in Russia, depicted over the span of two decades.

- RUS/71 - CLOSELY WATCHED TRAINS
One of the most refreshing and memorable movies you will ever see. Closely Watched Trains is an Academy Award winning gem that has an inventiveness and charm that will leave you warm and wanting more. Set in a sleepy Czechoslovakian rail station during WWII, it is the story of a young train conductor, Milos whose encounter with a seductive conductress ends in disaster when she takes him to bed and he can't make the grade. Milos is advised to focus his mind on football and find more experienced women to cure his distressing problem. This offbeat but tender comedy about frustration, eroticism and adventure is both a surprise and a wonderfully moving movie. (Subtitled) (89 min.) (B/W)
